Objectives

Students will identify the experiences and job skills they possess that will help them find jobs.

Students will analyze the skills they identified to find those appropriate for their resumes.

Students will learn what to include in their resumes.

Students will learn what a resume should look like.

Materials Needed

- Session 1: Completed copies of the “My Qualifications” activity sheet (Part I)
- Session 1: One copy of the “Skills Translator” activity sheet for each student (Part II)

- Session 1: Sets of real job application forms from such places as fast-food restaurants, and department stores for each small group (Part II)
- Session 2: One set of real resumes on various kinds of paper and in various fonts for each small group (Part I)

SESSION 1

Starter (3 minutes)

Tell students the following story:

Dave Thomas was the owner of Wendy's, the worldwide fast-food chain, and starred in the company's commercials. Even though Dave owned Wendy's, he handled very little of the company's day-to-day operations. He admitted that he wasn't very good with those details. But Dave was a great speaker; so instead, he traveled around to the different restaurants to motivate his staff and he was featured in Wendy's commercials. Dave knew what his strengths and weaknesses were. He translated his strengths into a skill that he used to make his business more successful.

Explain to students that they will need to present their unique strengths, experiences, and skills to potential employers; a resume is an effective tool with which to do that.

Part I Skills, Talents, and Experience (10 minutes)

Purpose: Students recall the experience and job skills they possess that will help them find jobs.

1. Students identify what a resume is.

Ask students if they know what a resume is. Explain that a resume is a summary of an individual's education and work experience.

2. Students identify experiences that may help them get a job.

Ask students to raise their hands if they have work experience. If any students raise their hands, ask them to share their experience with the class. Explain that other experiences can translate into skills that are important to employers.

Ask students to take out the "My Qualifications" activity sheet, which they completed in Lesson 2. If students have not completed the activity sheet, conduct a brainstorming session so they can identify their own skills, strengths, and talents.

Remind students not to limit themselves to work experience when considering things to include on their resumes. Explain that many things they do on a regular basis can provide experience and indicate skills. Offer examples such as babysitting for younger siblings, helping with the cooking, volunteering, and participating in school activities.

Prompt students by instructing them to think about the things they like to do and the skills or talents that these things involve. Allow them several minutes to make a list of their experiences.

3. Students recognize the value of their skills, talents, and experience.

When students have finished, explain that all of these things they have listed are skills they can talk about when they apply for a job. Job skills can come from hobbies, activities, education, and prior jobs.

Part II You Have Skills (20 minutes)

Purpose: Students analyze the skills they have identified to find those appropriate for their resumes.

1. Students recognize how their skills, talents, and experiences translate into job skills.

Hand out the “Skills Translator” activity sheet. Explain that this activity sheet will help them turn the experiences and talents that they just identified into skills for the workplace.

Provide an example for students, such as, “One of my activities is basketball, so I put that in my activity box. What are some of the skills I use playing basketball? To play basketball, I have to be a team player, I have to have discipline to go to practice, I’m able to jump high, I have an accurate shot, and I can calculate scores.”

Point out that you considered all of the skills that you have gained from basketball, even if they aren’t directly related to a job. Ask if anyone can translate any of the basketball skills into skills that an employer might want. Lead students to the understanding that being a team player shows the ability to work well with other employees in the company, that discipline shows perseverance and indicates likely good attendance, and that the ability to keep score shows basic math skills.

Repeat this process using an experience offered by a volunteer.

2. Students translate their skills, talents, and experiences into job skills.

Have students fill out the activity sheet using their individual skills, experiences, activities, and talents.

3. Students analyze the types of skills that are important for various jobs.

Have students form small groups. Ask students to research 21st Century Skills and discuss their competencies in these areas. Have a volunteer from each group read their list and share interesting points discussed in the group.

SESSION 2

Part I Make It Sharp (15 minutes)

Purpose: Students appreciate the importance of a clear format and proper grammar on their resumes.

1. Students review and discuss resume components.

Have students investigate traits of high-quality resumes. Note take and share with a peer.

2. Students discover the dos of resumes.

Discuss with students why it is advantageous for their resumes to stand out. Ask about ways that resumes can be made to stand out. Have student groups look at the real resumes and notice the ways in which different resumes look special. (Some examples might be: the choice of font, the use of boldface, or underlining important words.) Explain that resumes should be clear and easy to read.

3. Students discover the don'ts of resumes.

Ask students if they can describe the kinds of resume mistakes that might catch an employer's eye and cast them in a negative light. (Students may respond: poor grammar, misspellings, or a handwritten—instead of typed—resume.)

Ask students to take the point of view of employers and think about the characteristics they would look for in their employees. Point out that employers want to know that potential employees complete every job to the best of their abilities, consider every task important, and make sure each job is done properly. Explain to students that when they submit a resume without any grammar or spelling errors, they're telling potential employers that they care about the things they produce. That makes them good prospective employees.

Highlight the importance of this by explaining that employers usually get many resumes for one position and that if a resume has many grammar or spelling errors, the employer may not even read it.

4. Students recognize the importance of editing and proofreading their resumes.

Explain the importance of editing and proofreading. Explain that it's important to have at least two people they trust look over their resumes before they send them to anyone. Remind students that spelling and grammar are easy to fix. Suggest that students ask a friend to proofread their resumes so that prospective employers will not be turned off by errors.

5. Students decide on categories with which to organize their resumes.

Remind students that to make resumes organized and easy to read, their qualifications must be organized into categories. Qualifications that are similar should go into the same category. For example, they might list sports, chess, and cooking under “Activities” if they frequently participate in these activities.

Have students recall some other categories for a resume. (Students might respond: education, work experience, volunteer experience, school activities, interests, and talents/strengths.)

Ask students to choose appropriate categories that they will use in their resumes.

6. Students learn about putting the finishing touches on their resumes.

Explain to students that there is one more thing they need to know. Say, “Your resume is all about you. Make sure it presents you in the positive light you deserve and that your name is in the largest font size on the page.”

Part II Putting It All Together (25 minutes)

Purpose: Students write and correct their resumes.

1. Students write their own resumes.

Have students develop their own resume template and write their own resumes.

2. Students evaluate their peers’ resumes.

Explain that most employers take less than a minute to look at a resume before they put it down. Remind students to make sure that their resumes are so clear and easy to read that potential employers get the important information in a short amount of time. Spelling, grammar, and neatness are essential.

If time permits, ask students to work with a partner to edit and proofread their resumes.

Conclusion (2 minutes)

Ask students if they can actually use the resumes that they wrote. Elicit from students the following key points that were taught in this lesson:

- Students have talents and strengths that can be assets when looking for a job.
- A resume helps present these skills.
- A well-written, error-free resume with appropriate details can impress a potential employer.

Student Assessment

SESSION 1

1. What is a resume? List the benefits of having one.
2. List three categories that you should include in a resume.
3. Imagine you want to apply for an after-school job as a salesperson at your favourite clothing store. The job description reads, "Seeking salesperson with some experience. Must have a good understanding of merchandise and cash register. Must feel comfortable approaching customers. Must work well as a member of a team." List the skills that you might need to be qualified for this job.

SESSION 2

1. List five characteristics of an effective resume and three characteristics of an ineffective resume.
2. What can you do to make your resume presentable to a potential employer?

LESSON EXTENSIONS

Using Quotations

“Use what talents you possess; the woods would be very silent if no birds sang there except those that sang best.”

Discuss recognizing and building on existing skills.

Using Technology

Have students watch YouTube videos by career counsellors on resume writing. Take notes on what tips are relevant for you. Discuss as a pair.

Writing in Your Journal

Ask students to write about personal experiences that involved special talents and skills.

Using Technology

Have students type their resumes.

Homework

Have students create charts that list effective action words and various formats that they can use on their resumes.

Additional Activity

Have students take time to try different fonts and layout options to improve the appearance of their resumes.
